Tickets and business, Mary Lou Wilcox and Betty Graybill. Programs, Betty Carter, Head; and Madge Mathews. Sound, Betty Anthony, Head; Phillida Bien, Peggy Foster and Eunice Martin.

Ushers will be made up of members of the Y. W. Cabinet and Bobby DePass.

Preparations For May Day Now Under Way

The preparation for May Day, which is Saturday, May 4, are being made. The theme is to be oriental, from an original story, written by Miss Stewart, called the Miracle of Shangti.

In a faraway spot in China there is an alter of Shangti, who is the supreme ruler of heaven. The story is told that in the idol there is a fair lady who is the daughter of Heaven. She appeared thousands of years ago for the empress Yan Koa. For many years the idol has been displaced and the miracle of the lady seems to be a legend. Evil spirits of the ancestors inhabit the island and the people are afraid of the idol.

Many years pass and spring has come. The empress issues an imperial order that all the subjects shall go to the island to worship and please Shangti. Surely, with such a beautiful new empress, the idol will be pleased and pay homage.

This year, there has been a great harvest, the people are happy, and with such joy and spirit of the place—the miracle of Shangti is again performed.

If any girls wish to try-out for some of the dances they may on Monday and Wednesday at 3:00, and on Tuesday and Thursday at 5:00.

Student Election Will Be Held On Thursday, April 11

On Thursday, April 11, the Student Government Association of M. W. C. will go to the polls to vote for next year's major officers of Student Council. The poll will be held in Virginia Hall.

Voting will be held throughout the entire day, the poll opening at 8 a. m. and closing at 6 p. m. Present members of the Student Council will be in charge.

Following the election, the Student Council will entertain the student body and members of the faculty at an informal "Election Day Dance," returns from the voting will be announced. The college orchestra will play.

The nominees for the offices are as follows:

Vice-president — Peggy Snow, Marie Seay, Marion Jones.

Secretary — Bobby Depass, Donald Holden, Mary Ellen Seaborn.

Treasurer — Miriam Crosson, Sally Edwards, Ruth Seay, Marjorie Dudley.

Fire Commander — Dorothy Felts, Dorothy Shaw, Mary Miller Cregler, Jane Prillman.

Editor of Bulletin — Helen Horwitz, Midge Clapp.

Editor of Battlefield — Alameda Hill, Joe Peoples.

Don't forget: Go to the polls on Thursday and vote!

I. R. C. Members Report To Club On Conference

On Tuesday night, April 2, the IRC held its regular monthly meeting. During the business session, the Club voted to assume the expenses of the representatives to the Regional Conference in Chapel Hill during Easter vacation. Mr. Darter told the Club that he had been asked to have a program of current events weekly, but he wanted the Club to present the events as round table discussions. The Club has decided it will take over such an activity for the remainder of the year. Another important action taken was to approve the Constitution with only minor changes.

Representatives to the Conference gave a report on their activities while in Chapel Hill. Jeanette Cooper read her diary that she had kept and let other members describe in detail certain phases of interest. Dorothy Sales reported on the peace policy of the United States, pointing out that the United States had a militaristic view—spending enormous sums of money for armaments. Emma Levy attended the discussion on our relationships with the Latin American countries. Raynell discussed the Orient and the United States and the short-sightedness of our foreign policy—especially in selling contraband to Japan, while we give benefits for China. Everyone who went seemed enthusiastic about the Conference and are planning to attend the one in Florida next year.

Sports Chairmen Discuss Plans For Spring Quarter

Group Hold Luncheon At Southern Grill

At a luncheon held at the Southern Grill last Wednesday, the respective chairmen of the various sports offered at Mary Washington during the Spring quarter discussed plans which are underway for activities.

Lavania Ellet gave a brief survey of the softball plans for the spring which include a series of 12 games in the offing. The Devil-Goat game, a highlight in Spring Athletics, was discussed.

A sketch of the tennis plans was given by Marguerite Fortman. There will be a series of ladder tournaments played.

Plans for archery and golf were announced as going in full swing toward a successful year, with tournaments, and extra hours of participation in each.

Dorothy Graf, chairman of swimming, outlined plans for the swimmers, which include a Devil-Goat meet on April 4, a water pageant in the early spring and instructors course in life saving.

Chairman of hiking, Lula Bray, gave some excellent plans for the hikers this spring, with hikes scheduled for each Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Further information will appear on the Athletic Calendar.

The "Hoof Prints" (riding club) is already working on the Spring horse show which gives promise of being the most successful since the annual custom was established.

Under the guidance of the Dance Club plans are now being formulated for the May Day Dances.

Home Ec. Department Starts New Library

A new library on the Hill? Yes, it's a fact, but don't expect too much. It is not very large, yet, though it is important. The Department of Home Economics has started a Departmental Library for the use of all students in Home Economics. At present the library is housed in the staff office adjacent to room 10 in Chadler Hall. Just now, but only for the present, for the library is bound to grow, the number of volumes is—say it softly—one!

The volume of the library collection is judged not only by number of volumes, but also by quality. We are by no means ashamed of the quality of our initial volume, which is the Year Book of Agriculture 1939 bearing the title "Food and Life."

On request to Senator Harry F. Byrd, this volume was obtained without cost. The Department of Home Economics takes this opportunity to thank Senator Byrd publicly, and to announce to publishers and other friends that gifts of books and periodicals for the department's new library will be most welcome.

Interesting Chapel And Convocation Programs Given

The Chapel and Convocation programs presented since Easter vacation have been interesting and well planned. At the first chapel, on last Friday, we heard a short but inspiring talk by Mr. Cary Barker, Baptist evangelist, who elaborated somewhat on the famous quotation, "Know Thyself, Control Thyself and Deny Thyself."

This week our first chapel presented Mr. John D. Lippy, Jr., of the Greyhound Bus Company, who gave vivid details of his visits to many of America's most outstanding natural wonders and historical shrines. He mentioned briefly the sights of New York City, St. Augustine, Fla., New Orleans, the Carlsbad Caverns, Death Valley, Hollywood, Lincoln's boyhood cabin, and many other points of interest. Friday the chapel audience heard an organ recital by Miss Nora Willis of the Music Department.

Our first convocation program since Easter was a talk by Mrs. Bushnell, who presented to us nine challenging factors to be taken into consideration in the development of a worthwhile personality. This week's convocation was a special treat, being the first program of organ music to be presented in our new auditorium. Our artist was Miss Charlotte Klein of Washington, D. C., who is the organist of St. Margaret's Church in that city. Miss Klein, who gave a varied and interesting selection of organ numbers, is to be an instructor in organ here during this quarter.

Student Officers Attend S.I.A.S.G. Convention In Ga.

Leighton Stevens and Jeanette Cooper, outgoing and incoming president of the Student Council, attended the S. I. A. S. G. convention held at Shanter College, Rome, Georgia, on March 25 thru March 27.

The convention was composed of delegates representing women's student governments of fifty-two Southern colleges. The states included those from Virginia to Louisiana.

The association celebrated its silver anniversary as this was the twenty-fifth consecutive year that it had met. The theme was carried out at the formal banquet held on the night of March 26. Each delegate was presented with a small silver spoon as a favor.

The purpose of the conference was to allow the heads of student government to interchange ideas and to discuss problems that rise on the various campuses. The meetings are held in form of round table discussions.

The movie "Seventeen," starring Jackie Cooper, was shown free of charge on Monday evening by Alpha Phi Sigma.

Margaret McCulloch, President, Will Lead Grand March

On Saturday evening, April 6, the German Club of Mary Washington College will give its Spring Dances in Monroe Hall and in the Hall of Mirrors, George Washington Hall.

The German will begin at nine o'clock with the grand march led by the president of the club, Margaret McCulloch, of Buchanan, Virginia, and her escort, Conway W. Smith, of Chancellor. Following in successive order will be Miss Jake Edge, of Richmond, president of the Cottillion Club, and the other officers of the German Club, Miss Eleanor Small, vice-president, Miss Martha Lee Bennett, secretary, Miss Adine Goodloe, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Lake Bushnell, sponsor.

The official chaperones for the dances are Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Combs, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Alvey, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon Moss, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Beale Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Almont Lindsey, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Darter, Dr. and Mrs. James Harvey Dodd, Dr. and Mrs. James Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kirby, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Bauer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nicks.

The members of the German Club are as follows:

Barbara Apple, Aloise Brill, June Campbell, Nancy Broker, Eloise Caverlee, Ruth Cheshire, Sarah Cooke, Zelene DesChamps, Mary Estes, Jo Lee Fleet.

Barbara Gaines, Jane Haddox, Constance Hawthorne, Annette Hodnett, Elizabeth Hoffman, Donald Holden, Betsy Jean Hurt, Jean Ivory, Rosalie Johnson, Grace Karsten, Lee Wingate Keith.

Juanita Lasseter, Lois Loehr, Jean McCaffrey, Patsy McCulloch, Martha Minges, Margaret Moore, Caroline Muirhead, Katherine Nelson, Josephine Peoples, Sally Phillips.

Virginia Ramsey, Beverly Roberts, Catherine Rucker, Jamie Redwood, Dorothy Satterfield, Betty Simmons, Emmon Smith, Frances Spivack, Weslia Stafford.

Edna Vass, Mildred Vass, Dorothy Vernon, Betty Whitacre, Melba Winslow and Margery Wood.

In addition to the members of the German Club, about a hundred other students of Mary Washington College are guests at the dances.

The Tea Dance, to be held in the gymnasium of Monroe Hall, will be from four until six in the afternoon. The decorative scheme will be in green and white and yellow with hanging baskets as the motif. After the German in the evening, a midnight buffet supper is served in the South Unit of Seacobeck Hall.

Mary Washington Players Meet

The members and apprentices of Mary Washington Players held their regular meeting Monday night, April 1.

Plans were made for a banquet to be given by the club Monday night, April 22.

Apprentices will be initiated as new members, and those members of the Mary Washington Players who are eligible for membership of the Alpha Psi Omega will be initiated also.

Wednesday night was another red-letter day in the history of Mary Washington College. Mr. Benjamin Pitts gave to the school a two-manual concert pipe organ which has been installed in the auditorium of George Washington Hall.

Dr. Charlotte Klien, of Washington, D. C. gave a concert on the instrument. She has recently been added to the staff of the music department and will give organ instructions.

As we travel along the journey of college life we pause from time to time to view certain milestones which mark the progress of our Alma Mater. Ten years ago, this institution boasted an enrollment of something like 300 students. Today there are 1,200. Upon the hill stood Frances Willard, Monroe, and two-thirds of Virginia as we now see it. Since that time we have to pause to take cognizance of several events and achievements which marked our upward progress.

New courses have been offered, new degrees have been conferred, new objectives have been set forth, and a new name signified these changes. Standards were raised. A system of more selective admission requirements was put into practice. The college earned national recognition. Wednesday and her marker, indicative of the steady climb we are making, was witnessed and added to the long trail of admirable advancement.

it's your life...

---by Maude S. Nuttall, Ps. D.

Have You These Personality Traits?

It was once my privilege to attend a dinner party of very distinguished guests. Around the table were seated the governor of a state, two United States Senators, a college president and a famous woman writer, and an insurance agent who on one warm day in May walked into the White House, and sold to President Coolidge whom he had never met before—a large insurance policy. Because of the remarkable personality of a man who could do this I made a careful study of the personality traits which made him the unusual person that he was. I was able to do this because a few weeks after the dinner party he worked with me professionally. We will call this man Mr. Brown—which is not his real name.

Mr. Brown was by far the most interesting person among that group of interesting people. He led the conversation—and yet he was never obtrusive. We learned that he was a self-made man—that he had been obliged to earn his living at an early age—that his educational advantages had been few. His audience at the dinner I have mentioned were persons who had had unusual educational and travel experiences. Three of them were masters of the English language. Brown did not talk up to them. He was natural, unassuming, unaffected. Often he mixed his prepositions and adverbs, but it was his way of talking and he kept to his style.

Compared to his journeys some others present had traveled far. Brown urged them to tell him about their journeys and when they had the floor he listened intently, not trying to cover up his lack of sophistication in this direction. His interest seemed almost childlike in its appreciation of what he was hearing. He made those talking feel that what they had to say was of extreme importance. That made them warm up to him; when he was urged to talk there was genuine enjoyment in listening to him.

His lack of self-consciousness made others feel at ease—while his humor put sparkle and gaiety into the evening. I noticed that he did not tell any jokes at the expense of other persons. If he had fallen into this trap there would have been a chill as members of the audience would naturally think they might later be victims of his wit. Thus everything about him won their confidence; they knew that their own personalities would be inviolate. There is nothing people cherish more than the protection of their personalities.

The persons who "arrive" in chosen careers are first of all those who can be depended upon. They do what they say, carry out their promises, make their words as good as their bond.

They live and talk without exaggeration. They are considerate of others in their dealings; they will go out of their way to be of help and are continuously practicing the law of kindness.

Simple rules for living-vital factors in personality—which win success.

Candid Shots

Ho-hum! "I slept and dreamed that life was Beauty, but I awoke and found that life was Duty"—and a column to get out.

To most of us, the happenings of the spring vacation are just so much water under the bridge. Notice that ye olde B. B. said most. Gertrude Gresham isn't included in that category for she went and got herself engaged—and who could forget that. Best of luck to you, "Gertie", but don't make that wedding any time soon.

Speaking of weddings, what do you think of Dot Stone? Here she's been married since December and didn't tell us about it until Easter. We forgive you though Dot, and wish you all the luck in the world!

Another repercussion of vacation time: Annette Peltz went to visit Bobby Chatkin at her home in New York City and came back with a bid to the Spring dances at University of North Carolina. It's a small world, isn't it?

Isn't Julie Mosely the lucky girl? She's leading the figure for the Spring dances at Roanoke College this week-end. Of course, Jack is going to help her. Want you to watch her Mary Paten, since you're going to be there, too.

We wonder what was Lillian Buck's big attraction in Washington last week-end? Could it have been that tall, dark, and handsome from the University of Penn??? Well, anyhow, we know the answer to Gladys Kanter's big attraction this week-end—George G. from V. P. I.

And of course, we're all very happy and proud about Dr. and Mrs. Moss' new baby—a prospective member of the Class of '61 at M. W. C.

"I Took A Trip On A Train"

Don't tell me about the "sunny south". Perhaps the term south means Florida. But even though there was sun in Georgia, it was still cold. In fact, there was snow in the northern part.

The trip by train, down and back was comparatively short and quite an experience. The porters and waiters were very attentive in trying to make things pleasant.

Upon arriving in Rome, Georgia, that good old "southern hospitality" blossomed forth. Girls from Shorter College met the train and took me to the College. Never had I met so many beautiful girls and they weren't dumb either, because they were all either incoming or outgoing presidents of southern colleges.

All morning Tuesday, there were continuous discussions in connection with student government. There was also a lecture and a demonstration on parliamentary law. That afternoon, the Kiwanis Club of Rome arranged for us to take a tour through the Martha Berry School. That is a wonderful institution. In the evening, there was a formal banquet, followed by a speech and a discussion.

On Wednesday morning, the discussion took the procedure of an open forum, where we were allowed to unburden and discuss any or all of our problems.

Following this, there was a plenary session, at which time, plans were made for next year and officers were elected.

The administration, girls, housing and meals at Shorter College were wonderful. There was feeling of congeniality throughout the entire conference.

My travels have taken me North and South but I'll still sing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

Dr. Lewis G. Locke

Professor Personalities

One of the new professors on campus this year is Dr. Louis Glenn Locke of the English Department. Dr. Locke came to Mary Washington from Canadian University, where he taught last year. Dr. Locke says that he is impressed most by the friendliness of the students and the beauty of the campus here at M. W. C. He finds a contrast between the girls here and those in Canada. Mary Washington girls are better looking, better dressed and not so serious.

In his leisure time Dr. Locke enjoys fishing in the Shenandoah Valley near his home in Woodstock, Virginia. Fond of reading he especially enjoys Chaucer, Dryden and Pope. As a hobby he collects eighteenth century books; he prefers reading from an old edition, which might have been thumbed by some great personage, rather than a modern reproduction.

Dr. Locke attended school at George Washington University, Harvard and Cambridge in England.

While in Europe he visited Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, France and Italy. He prefers London to other European cities. Also he has toured practically all of the United States.

He takes a fancy toward swing music and finds in most cases it is preferable to that of a classical nature. When asked if he liked blondes or brunettes he said that it all depends on the girl. However, he is a little prejudiced in favor of brown haired girls. He likes most anything to eat; all kinds of seafood and "corn on the cob" being his favorite dishes.

Spring Fever At M. W. C.

What is so rare as a day in Spring? The skies are blue; the grass is green; the birds are singing. 'Tis true. Spring is come. 'Tis true. Spring made her appearance March 21, scientifically. (This is a fact known to almost everyone but Anne Vanderberry, who has spring fever and doesn't "know what time it is.")

That Spring has come may be detected from sources other than nature and science. For example, Kay Rucker has shed her raccoon coat. Dr. Shankle has exchanged his usual brown hat for a light gray one. Pastel jackets and white spectators have definitely replaced fur coats and boots. Helen Smith's grass green jacket is as refreshing as an April shower. Margaret Gardner is positively a breath of spring in her new chapeau of red flowers. Speaking of flowers, Lenora Haller makes a pleasant picture with "colorful hyacinths in her hair. That new spring tweed of Mr. Nicks' is the talk of the campus.

Spring cleaning has certainly got in the bones of M. W. C. Girls, Edith Beamer, Margie Owen, and Lucille Cutchin in Virginia 313 took last Saturday off, dressed in old clothes and settled down to some earnest cleaning. A candid camera could have done a lot with Betty Ader and Anne Martin out on the sills scrubbing windows. Even Frank caught the fever and has redecorated "the little store." A little musical spring cleaning has been done by the Three Bets. who have changed their theme song to "Wham Re Bop Boom Bam."

There are many other signs of Spring. For instance, the door to the P. O. is being kept open. Biology trips and rural walks are becoming popular. The early morning golf and tennis demons are at it again. The "kids" in Fannie Willard while away the hours jumping rope. Such sun worshippers as Jackie Edge and Tiny Yount have been detected basking in the spring warmth. A lover of the outdoors, Sally McPhail has offered to exchange jobs with one of the brick layers if he will attend classes for her. Last but not least, the cry of "Play Ball!" can be heard in the direction of the athletic field. Thus are the signs of the approach of the time when a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love.

Preparation is being made to make this year's festival activities, one of the most elaborate and impressive shows in the seventeen years of the celebration's existence.

What Do You Think?

This week our roving reporter was busy finding out what some of the men professors think about the "new spring hats." Here are some of the opinions that were expressed:

Mr. Nicks—I like 'em; the crazier the better. They're more fitting that way.

Mr. Hiatt—My candid opinion of them would really be too bad to express.

Dr. Vogelback—As hats appear I like them, but after a period of time I begin to wonder why.

Dr. Alexander—I prefer to make no comment; I'm a married man.

Dr. Locke—I think the new spring sailors are very lovely, but I don't like those with all the vegetation.

Dr. Itis—I like the new spring hats from the zoological and botanical viewpoint.

Meeting Is Held By Freshman Class

A meeting of the Freshman class was held Tuesday night, March 2, in the big gym. The meeting was opened by the President. The devotionals consisted of the members singing "Praise God From All Blessings Flow." A report on the financial status of the class was given by the Secretary.

The following program was given: Betty Lee Fleet rendered a selection on the saxophone "Chololie" accompanied by Edna Reed, Billy Pappas and Margaret Jean Athey played two duets, "Boo for the Boogey Man", and "Rock It For Me."

Grace Edwards reported the names of the committee chairmen and their members for the Freshman carnival. Work on the Freshman Carnival will begin soon, and it is hoped that it will be the best ever given by a Freshman class.

The meeting adjourned with the completion of plans for Freshman Carnival to meet again in May.

Tennis Announcement

All tennis players, either good or indifferent, come out for the tennis tournament. Mr. Ulman has graciously donated cups for the beginners and advanced championships which will come sometime in the middle of May.

When the courts begin to get crowded the girls must sign for them. They are to be numbered as follows: No. 1, nearest to Willard Hall and in sequence down to No. 6, which is near the field house. Each day there will be a schedule on the gymnasium bulletin board to be signed. On Mondays and Wednesdays from 4:45 to 5:30, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:00 to 4:00, courts 3 and 4 will be used for instructions. So to be sure of a court sign up early.

Players must wear tennis shoes. Saddle oxfords or rubber soled shoes are not permitted. And the courts are not to be used when they are damp or soft.

Come out now and practice and if you wish instructions we will be glad to give them to you.

Hints For Spring

SUGGESTED BY MRS.
LANGDON

Fashion and Spring, Spring and Fashion—surely are inseparable!

The Home Economics department is definitely aware of the re-awakened interest that comes since Spring is here, or just around the corner. Clothes conscious? Certainly, and why not—especially after Mrs. Helen Langdon's visit to the Home Economics classes on last Wednesday, the opening day of the new quarter. Mrs. Langdon holds the important position of Fashionist at Thalhimers in Richmond. She presented to the classes innumerable ideals, new modes, and she, herself, was an inspiration not only in being well-groomed but being an excellent illustration of good posture—one of our "circle" important in building personality.

Touching on nearly every factor of interest to the younger girl, Mrs. Langdon, among other things, emphasized the dominance of the matching playsuit and dress in a variety of designs never before found in tailored garments. Stripes, checks, polka dots in colors, bright and cheerful, with dark blue the most prominent basic color for this Spring. Suitable fabrics are available in non-crushable linens; searsuckers, cottons in new effects, shark skin, hop sacking and for evening, cool organdies. As for accessories—one should have matching hat and a large bag. Mrs. Langdon displayed a very large bright checked bag, really sufficient for a week-end, in which an umbrella of the same material as the bag was surprisingly hidden.

Duke University Glee Club Gives Concert Before MWC Students

J. Foster Barnes, director of the Duke University Glee Club which gave a concert in George Washington Hall auditorium of Mary Washington College, last Saturday evening was an exacting musician whose first concern, nevertheless, is his audience. A typical illustration of this characteristic occurred on the Southern 37-voice glee club singers' annual northern tour last year.

At one of the stops in Pennsylvania, the concert was given in an auditorium with a low stage. The large audience overtaxed the seating capacity and chairs were placed wherever there was a little space left, including the passageway between the stage and the first row of seats. A young music lover of about twelve years seated himself comfortably in one of these chairs and throughout the concert braced himself against the stage, his face beaming as brightly as the footlights not twelve inches in front of him.

His intent interest and enthusiastic applause caught the attention of the Duke songsters early in the program and Director Barnes also noticed him. Heartily as was the applause of the large audience after each number, the lad's approval was even more pronounced.

He was apparently oblivious to the remainder of the audience, following every measure of every number as if he were the only listener. Though unable to so completely forget the hundreds of other music lovers in the auditorium, Director Barnes and his singers were soon giving the lad a large part of their attention. For the final encore the glee club faced the young auditor, and at the conclusion the director made a special bow to him.

Needless to say, the lad was first on the stage to shake Professor Barnes' hand at the end of the program. And no one had to ask him where he intended to continue his education after high school.
